EXECUTIVE IS SILENT ABOUT LEWIS THREAT

Ultimatum Issued By Mine Workers' Chief Is Not Mentioned at Press Conference

Washington, Oct. 24.—(AP)—President Truman left the threat of another nationwide soft coal strike squarely up to Secretary of Interior Krug today.

Mr. Truman declined to discuss John L. Lewis' ultimatum for a reopening of the United Mine Workers' contract at his news conference.

The president likewise declined to comment on questions as to his plans on continued wage controls, telling reporters to read his speech of Oct. 14 lifting price ceilings from meat.

Meanwhile, Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug expressed doubt that the miners will quit their jobs on November 1—as John L. Lewis has intimated—unless a conference on the new wage demands begins in Washington on that date.

In emphatic terms, Lewis has set a November 1 deadline for reopening negotiations, declaring that otherwise the government's contract with his United Mine Workers Union will be "void."

By tradition, that would mean a strike, since the miners follow a "no contract, no work" policy.

"I don't see how I can be there November 1," Krug told newsmen last night in Boulder City, Nev.

"But I don't think they will walk out. After all, the time and place of the meeting have been set."

Krug did not specify either the time or place "set"—one of the major points in dispute—and he simply referred only to the fact that he has offered to meet Lewis either at Tule Lake, Calif., on November 1 or in Washington after November 6, when his western inspection tour is due to end.

While Lewis himself remained silent, William Blizard, president of the United Mine Workers District 17, assailed what he termed the government's "double standard" in the existing contract as "a plot by unscrupulous members of the Democratic party to destroy our union."

Simultaneously, the National Coal Association, commenting for the first time on the new crisis brewing in their mines—declared the strike threat constitutes "a challenge to the government's authority."

Federal Budget Statement Coming Later In The Day

Washington, Oct. 24.—(AP)—President Truman told his news conference today that he will issue a statement on the federal budget later in the day.

He gave no indication of the nature of the statement, but it reportedly will be intended to clarify the status of spending for civilian public works among other things.

The White House announcement came while the army and navy pressed toward a $1,650,000,000 penny pot set by the president.

But federal spending for civilian public works appears headed at $1,000,000,000 over the established $900,000,000 limit.

This prospect is underscored by new administration decision to provide an extra $25,000,000 for reclamation projects.

On the economic side: The department, under orders from Mr. Truman to pare its budget $1,000,000,000, disclosed plans for a "substantial" cut in the number of peacetime army camps and other posts.

And the navy reported that economies it already has ordered will save more than $600,000,000.

In his budget message August 2, Mr. Truman instructed the navy to trim its $5,800,000,000 budget by at least $650,000,000. He told the army then to hold its spending to $8,000,000,000.

In the case of both services, the revised limits do not include expenditures for terminal leave pay.

Washington, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Although 1946 was a war year, navy chaplains were busier with baptisms than with burials. Statistics released by the navy today showed the chaplains corps that year conducted 12,501 marriage ceremonies, 15,088 baptisms, 14,951 funerals, gave 80,835 lectures and held 61,613 study classes.

The fall farm youngsters and Karl Hoffman, his father, were in the main arena as the price began to climb with some 100 bidders at the opening.

Donald S. Behney, director of stores for the State Liquor Control Board said last night "until we can get enough whisky to meet the demands of our customers we will be forced to continue rationing."

He pointed out that the government's new allocation of 18 percent more grain for distilling purposes will "enable the distillers to increase their output by one-half day more per month."

At present the distillers are limited to three days of production in each month, and the extra half day will hardly produce enough whisky to meet the demands of the public, said Behney.

The present whisky rationing period will end on Nov. 2, and another two week period is scheduled to start on Nov. 4 and will extend to Nov. 15.

The Soviet delegation to the United Nations Assembly session came prepared for any emergency it seems. Above, New York stevedores unload some of the 30 crates of cognac and vodka the Russians brought along on the Queen Elizabeth.

Truman Declines To State Definitely Whether He Will Make Any Campaign Talks

Washington, Oct. 24.—(AP)—President Truman declined today to say definitely whether he will make any campaign speeches and also laughingly turned aside a newsmen's suggestion for a bet on the outcome of the November 5 elections.

Election bets, the president explained, are illegal in Missouri, where he votes.

Covering a wide assortment of topics in response to fast-paced questions at a news conference, the president also said:

On the possibility of formally ordering an end to wage controls before November 1, his recent speech on the meat situation speaks for itself. (He said then that lifting of wage ceilings would be accelerated as price controls are removed.)

The threatened coal crisis at this point is entirely in the hands of Secretary of the Interior Krug. Any end to price ceilings on cotton textiles is up to Price Administrator Paul Porter and Agriculture Secretary Anderson.

He hopes some way can be found to take care of 18 Estonians who sailed a small boat to Miami and who have been ordered deported from this country. A temporary stay of deportation was issued today by Attorney General Clark. Legislation probably would be required to permit the United States to take in political refugees from other lands the president said.

Rumor that Clark is resigning and will be replaced by Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) were described by Mr. Truman as too absurd for comment. The same goes for rumors about resignation of Associate Justice Robert H. Jackson of the supreme court; and in the same category is an Army and Navy Journal report that Secretary Forrestal is leaving the navy department, he added.

The president has no intention of calling congress into special session.

Mr. Truman said he has no plans for any campaign speeches. Asked why he is "not going to speak for Democratic candidates" the president declared he had not said he would not speak, merely that he has no plans.

He said he has not, as did the late President Roosevelt, placed a sealed envelope in his desk any bets with himself on the outcome of the election.

At the opening of the Security Council earlier this year at Hunter College, "no smoking" signs also were displayed, but stubs and ashes littered the floor.

The girl who sells United Nations literature at the General Assembly says college students and school teachers predominate among buyers. There has been almost no demand for atomic bomb literature.

Washington, Oct. 24.—(AP)—The government stepped into the three-day strike of 1,400 Trans World Airlines pilots today, with both sides accepting a federal mediation offer after 15,000 additional company employees were thrown out of work.

Frank Douglas, chairman of the National Mediation Board, called opposing leaders in the dispute to his office for an 11 a. m. conference.

Shortly before the 11 a. m. hour, however, Douglas told reporters that the meeting had been deferred until 1:30 p. m., "because of transportation difficulties."

The speed with which both parties responded to Douglas' invitation rekindled dwindling hope for an early settlement of the walk-out which has grounded 115 planes, tied up 25,000 miles of routes extending from California to Arabia and paralyzed a $150,000 daily payroll.

David L. Behncke, president of the AFL Air Line Pilots Association, and Jack Frye, president of TWA, quickly agreed to the meeting.

Douglas' telegram went out only a few hours after Frye announced that all but a few employees were being "furloughed" without pay for the duration of the strike.

The pay issues in the dispute—confusing with such items as base pay, hourly pay, mileage, differential for day and night flying, extra pay for flying international routes—have been further complicated by the fact that the company and the union use different working periods in computing them.

New Castle, Del., Oct. 24.—Approximately 1,500 TWA employees have been laid off at the company's offices here and at nearby Wilmington, following receipt yesterday of TWA President Jack Frye's letter announcing the lay-off of 15,000 employees.

Frye said loss of income caused by the strike of TWA pilots made it necessary to "cut expenses to the minimum."

In Philadelphia, an additional 150 TWA employees were laid off.

Washington, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Bulgaria's swift compliance with Kremlin inspired censorship orders plummeted that nation's chances today for speedy American diplomatic recognition.

The suppressive action that brought a new outcry from this government also:

1. Placed fresh emphasis on an apparently developing Russian policy to slam the door against what Moscow regards as "interference" in the Balkans by the western powers.

2. Underscored anew the ideological differences between Russia and the western allies which are at the root of many of the problems now confronting the United Nations General Assembly in New York.

The state department bluntly accused Russia yesterday of forcing the Sofia government to suppress an American protest against its failure to provide guarantees for a free Bulgarian election next Sunday.

The department charged that Col. Gen. Sergei Biryusov, Soviet member of the three-power Allied Control Commission had issued flat instructions to block publication of the protest in the Bulgarian Press.

Hence this government promptly put on its shortwave radio "The Voice of America" a message to the Bulgarian people informing them in their own language both of the protest and the Russian-imposed censorship.

Harrisburg, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Lifting of OPA controls on foods and beverages will not end whisky rationing in Pennsylvania.

Donald S. Behney, director of stores for the State Liquor Control Board said last night "until we can get enough whisky to meet the demands of our customers we will be forced to continue rationing."

Government Steps Into Three-Day Old Pilots' Strike With Conference Scheduled

PAY ISSUE CONFUSING

Clash Looms Over Small Nation Plan to Stifle Big Power Veto

Nearly 50% Reported At The First Chest Meeting

TO ALL CHEST CAMPAIGN WORKERS:

The campaign is scheduled to close tomorrow evening. It will be successful, provided you cover all the cards assigned to you and report the results on Friday at 7:30 p. m. at the Y. W. C. C.

H. W. Conarro, General Chairman.

Various divisions, Mr. Conarro stated that the results as he could see them would make the workers not too happy, nor should they be too despondent.

The first division to make its report was that of Mrs. Dawson, chairman of the residential divisions. After each team captain had reported it was found the total for this division to be $2,639.

Division D comprising the government and Schools had but one report and that was from the schools, reported by Mr. Rossman, of $754.50.

N. W. Drake reported for the Commercial division a total of $2,425.50.

Then the Special Gifts and Industrial division reported the grand sum of $14,164.15 making a total for the first days of the campaign $19,953.50.

This is a little less than half of the amount that must be raised before the closing report meeting on Friday.

One man who is in the larger sense responsible for the organization of this as well as many past campaigns, Chester Allen, was then called upon by Mr. Conarro to tell whether he thought the campaign would be a success.

Mr. Allen assured those gathered that although it was going to mean hard work, this "One for Nine" Community Chest campaign would make its quota. He spoke of the nine organizations accepting less than what they had asked for, and accepting it willingly so that Warren would not be asked to give a cent more than the minimum amount to carry on their work.

In closing the meeting, Mr. Conarro asked that all reports be in by Friday so that the campaign could be brought to a successful close at this time.

Washington, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Congress may kill OPA in January, some high administration officials predicted today.

But they added that by then only a slim list of very scarce, badly needed items in addition to rent will remain under ceilings.

As if to emphasize this forecast, OPA snatched its price tags from cosmetics and a long list of "luxury" products today in a quick follow-up to last night's sweeping food and beverage decontrol.

Together, the two actions swept overboard another big segment of wage control because the government applies its pay curbs only when higher price ceilings are involved.

Statistics said that in the case of food and restaurant industries alone, some 1,500,000 workers were cut loose from wage controls.

On the food list, only sugar, syrups and rice remain under OPA.

Frankly acknowledging that there is widespread belief in the government that congress will come back primed to knock out OPA quickly and finally, one ranking official said privately the policy between now and year's end will be get rid of ceilings rapidly but in orderly sequence.

Air Mail Week To Be Noted Over Nation

Postmaster Bell stated today that National Air Mail Week will be observed throughout the United States the week of October 27 to November 2 and that the Chamber of Commerce, the schools and a large majority of the business firms are cooperating with the local post office in planning numerous activities in order to better acquaint the public in the use of this better, faster and cheaper service, and to stimulate the dispatch from Warren of a large volume of mail by air during the designated seven day period.

Inauguration, October 27, of the new and lower rate of 5c per ounce immediately brought a sharp rise in air mail volume, the Postmaster said. Rapid air mail service, offered for the first time at a rate only 2c more than first class mail, should stimulate commerce, business leaders in Warren believe and they are encouraging large air mailings during the national week of promotion.

"We have long advocated lower air mail rates," remarked a local manufacturer, "and are glad to see that the Post Office has borrowed from business the principal that by getting more customers for a good product at a reduced cost the unit cost of delivery can be cut. A lower cost, however, requires one thing to succeed—a larger volume."

The Postmaster finds that business men generally want the five-cent rate continued and they realize that it is to the interest of everyone to send as much mail by air as possible during the period when the new low rate is being tested.

The local post office requests the help of every patron of this office. During National Air Mail Week dispatch your letters by air. Note the savings in time. Overnight service to every city in the United States.

SUITCASES STOLEN

Lawrence Ealey, of Kittanning arrived in town this morning from Oil City on an early morning bus with two suitcases. He placed them in the bus station and being unable to put them in a locker put them on the floor. Only one elderly man, whom Ealey took to be the janitor was in the station. Ealey then went out to eat and returning found the cases had vanished. He valued them at $500 as they contained much valuable clothing and property. One was a pig skin case and the other a calf skin case. Police are investigating and hope to return the cases.

Highway Crash Due To Fog Sends 4 Persons To Hospital

Heavy fog that covered the highway this morning at 7:45 caused damage to two trucks and one automobile and sent four persons to the hospital for treatment. The crash took place between F. N. tower and Starbuck and involved two automobiles and two trucks.

Edmund Chapel, 106 North Perry street, Titusville, driver of Star Mail Route truck. Cuts on forehead and left wrist bruised.

Mrs. George Dean, Grand Valley, right side of head cut requiring sutures. She was a rider on the mail truck.

Mrs. Albert Pratt, Titusville, shock and bruises. Also on mail truck.

Maud Pratt, 3 year old daughter, of Mrs. Pratt, chin cut requiring sutures. Also on mail truck.

Mrs. Maud Curry, Warren Will undergo X-Ray examination today for possible hurts about chest, left elbow and back.

All were discharged after receiving treatment with the exception of Mrs. Curry who was admitted for treatment.

The accident took place when a car being driven west by Leonard J. Engel RD 1, Warren, attempted to pass a truck of the GLF driven by Robert Goodman of Ithaca, N. Y. Looming out of the fog Engel suddenly saw a gasoline truck used by Lawrence Gordon, 1322 Pennsylvania avenue, west. In an endeavor to avoid a crash Engel pulled off the road to the left and escaped hurt or damage to his car. Gordon applied his brakes as did a new Dodge truck driven by Edmund Chapel, 106 North Main street, Titusville, Star route mail driver between Warren and Titusville.

The gas truck under the impact of the sudden applying of brakes skidded into the GLF truck and the mail truck crashed into the gasoline truck. Damage amounting to $600 was done to the Dodge truck; the Gordon truck suffered $6 damage and the GLF truck was damaged to the extent of $70 while the Engel car escaped damage.

State police investigated the accident and the investigation is still under way.

TRUCKS GOT ATTENTION

The specially designed trucks of the Howard Tree Company of this city have attracted much attention at Ridgway. They bore two large elm trees which were planted at the Court House replacing two trees which were removed some time ago.

MAKING FAST TIME

Every effort is being made by the Allegheny Asphalt Company to complete their contract for widening and blacktopping that portion of Route 62 from Wildwood to Tidioute. Practically all of the cement work has been finished and laying of black top is under way. The Route was closed yesterday afternoon and hundreds of feet of blacktop laid. The improvement will be a fine one when finished and will give motorists a stretch of wide newly blacktopped highway from Irvine to Tidioute when the job is finished as the Fago Construction Company have finished their contract from Irvine to Wildwood.

CAMPAIGN NEWS

REPUBLICAN
By the Associated Press—
Attorney General James H. Duff, Republican nominee for governor, says an economic crisis is threatening this country and laid the blame on "failure of the Democratic national administration to meet the needs of America in this postwar period."
Duff said at a political rally in Scranton last night that "the Democratic party is like a captainless ship in a great cargo."
He declared "the Democratic national administration is not in the American manner; it does not fit the American constitution; it does not fit the American way of doing things; it has not worked; it cannot work and will not work."
Governor Martin, G. O. P. candidate for a seat in the U. S. senate, speaking from the same platform, said the federal sale of surplus goods "has bogged down in a lot of misunderstanding and red tape."
At Harrisburg, George I. Bloom, secretary to Governor Martin, made public last night a photostat of what he said was a letter sent from the office of U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey, asking western Pennsylvania postmasters to attend a meeting in Pittsburgh yesterday. Bloom said the purpose of the meeting was not mentioned.

The letter was written on stationery of the U. S. senate committee on finance and Bloom said it was signed by "R. H. Bailey, Jr., secretary to Senator Guffey."
The governor's office, in response to an inquiry, said that Governor Martin holds a lease and pays $40 a month rent for a house built by the state at the Indian-town Gap military reservation at a cost of $36,658.
The governor's office said the house was built at the reservation for the commander-in-chief of the state guard or the next in line in command, and so on down the line, including the commanding officer of the reorganized 28th division.

DEMOCRATIC
By the Associated Press—
John S. Rice, Democratic candidate for governor, declared last night that if he is elected he will conduct an investigation into charges that State Republican Chairman M. Harvey Taylor has "practically a monopoly" of the state's bonding and insurance business.
Taylor and Governor Martin have both denied the charges which were first made during the Republican primary campaign.
Rice said last night in a statement issued in Harrisburg by the Democratic state committee that a master bond of $20,792,000 was written last year for "all employees of the liquor control system" and asked, "Did Taylor get any of the commission?"

He declared "the records show that most of the bonds written for officers and employees of the commonwealth, including practically all cabinet officers, are written by the company Taylor represents."
Rice added that Attorney General James H. Duff, his Republican opponent for governor, "is bonded for $20,000 by the same firm," and added that "if Governor Martin wants to make an investigation perhaps he can find who, 'in fact,' this 'attorney' represents and who gets paid."

At a political rally in his home town of Gettysburg, Rice reiterated last night his pledge "to hard surface every mile of dirt road possible, if elected governor."
"I see no reason," declared Rice, "why one farmer should have to live on a dirt road, choked with dust in summer, impassable in winter, bogged down with mud in the spring, while another farmer has a nice hard road past his house."
Taking cognizance of published reports in the death of a patient at the Byberry State Hospital in Philadelphia, State Democratic Chairman J. Warren Mickie, in a statement issued yesterday, asked Governor Martin "if your administration can't provide for these patients, couldn't you at least hire a guard to prevent them from murdering each other?"

Mizak Free Under $6000 Cash Bonds

Andrew Mizak, who on August 24th, shot and killed his friend John Kalinski at an isolated cabin in the Blue Eye sector of the county was freed from the county jail yesterday under $6000 cash bail posted by his attorney, Edward Petrillo, of Erie.

Mizak, an Erie youth who claims to have been ill and sought the fresh country air at the Kalinski home, is alleged to have shot and killed Kalinski with a 22 calibre rifle on August 24, this year. Mizak had been staying at the Kalinski home with Kalinski and the aged senior Kalinski who was a paralytic. According to Mizak John Kalinski beat his father and in some trouble that later developed Mizak shot Kalinski. He then went to a neighbors home and still later to Corry where he surrendered to State Police, after he had tried to take his own life and failed.

Brought to Warren he spent some time in the hospital and since discharged there he has been in the county jail.

Some time ago at a conference of the District Attorney, investigating officers and others the first degree element in the case was withdrawn and bail in the sum of $6000 was set. This was furnished yesterday and Mizak went to Erie with his attorney last evening. It was stated he had a job there and would go to work at once.

Under the ruling by which the first degree charge of murder was piled against him the indictment that can be found by the December Grand Jury will be limited to second degree murder, voluntary manslaughter and involuntary manslaughter.

Huge Electric Sign Erected At Green Plant

For some time past employees of the Munson Electric Sign Company have been at work on the erection of the largest and most attractive electric sign in the city. Steel frame work erected atop the plant has been put in place and the finishing touches are now being placed on the sign.

It will blazon forth to all passersby that the G. G. Greene Company is doing business and is one of the coming manufacturing plants of the city. The wording on the sign will blaze forth in neon lights and when lighted the sign will attract much attention for the motorists who use Route 6 and 62 through the city.

A FOOTNOTE OF GRATITUDE

This is a rather awkward moment in the history of the Great Meat Shortage of 1946. It's too late for complaint and too early either for retrospect or gluttony. Yet something ought to be said in this interlude when the steak-for-breakfast fans are getting ready to break training.

So perhaps we might thank those solicitous government officials who provided us with copious explanations and statistics to munch on while their colleagues were trying to figure out how to get meat back on the table.

We feel particularly grateful to the gentleman in the Public Health Service who had some comforting words to say about soap, and the shortage thereof. James Thrasher, NEA Service, Inc., editorial writer, reminds that this official assured the country, at a time when most housewives were washing their meatless dishes in soapless water, that a temporary curtailment of daily bathing wasn't going to undermine the nation's health.

We don't know under what well-scrubbed conditions this gentleman grew to manhood. But we should like to suggest that there were fewer apprehensive quakes at the prospect of missing the daily bath than any other aspect of the meat shortage.

We don't have figures on the subject (there's one the government statisticians missed), but we feel safe in guessing that there are more stationary bathtubs in the United States than in all the rest of the world. Yet millions of American houses are without them. And to the residents of those dwellings a daily all-iver bath is more of a chore than it's worth.

It means heating water on a stove, as many current morning showerers remember from their youth, and carrying the steaming fluid to the site of the ablutions. That could be either a washbowl or, if total immersion is desired, a portable tub. In the latter case the bather usually has to shoo the family out of the kitchen to achieve a modicum of privacy. In either event, a mopping-up operation must follow.

This was the general rule in America 50 years ago, but only the rich, the fastidious or the fanatical made it a daily one. Among the others there was a goodly proportion who, enjoying excellent health on one over-all scrub a week, regarded more frequent bathing as actually harmful.

Undoubtedly they were wrong, but they could cite some classic instances.

Today bathing is quick and simple for many. No doubt the triumph of modern plumbing has helped to make this a healthier world. But who can say that in a better and happier world ahead, smarter doctors may not rule out the daily bath in favor of three a week? After all, a physician made news the other day by saying that the American custom of swilling down water all day long was injurious to health.

Anyway, we're grateful to the Public Health Service man for his comforting words. But we still think the country wasn't worried a bit.

WORTHY WELFARE ORGANIZATIONS

Two organizations which your gift to the Community Chest will aid are the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. In this time of so much juvenile delinquency, there are no more worthy organizations for your help than these two.

The Y. W. C. A., in keeping girls interested in the better life, offers a place for their recreation. It gives them a place where they may have clubs, have their meetings, their dinners, their dances. The girls have their various groups taking in the Beaty freshman, and the high school girls. Not alone for the younger girl is the Y. W. C. A., but for the older groups who have a place in their meetings to learn different crafts and languages. The Y. W. C. A. is a community meeting place for every woman, every girl who will avail herself of the opportunity offered.

For the boy, young man, and older man of the community, the Y. M. C. A. offers a club where he may swim, engage in sports such as tennis, basketball, softball. The youth of Warren, both boys and girls, have the privilege of the swimming pool, which is also used by the Red Cross for life-saving tests. During the war years the sailor and soldier found the doors always open to him. The returned veteran may visit the Y. M. C. A. and enjoy all the privileges for six months, without any cost. What the Y. M. C. A. is constantly doing for the youth of Warren can hardly be tabulated in matters of so much for this, so much for that, as it is the Y. M. C. A. that keeps your boy off the street and gives him good clean entertainment.

For the better community, give to the Community Chest, so that these organizations may still carry on for the youth of Warren.

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Politics, says the League of Women Voters, is one game in which, whether we like it or not, we're counted in.

"The trouble with politics," it adds, "is that too many of us are letting somebody else play our hands for us."

The League, a non-partisan organization was established in 1920 to encourage citizens' participation in government. It is currently campaigning to impress folks that politics is everybody's business.

The average citizen, says the League, after making up his mind about the kind of world he wants for himself and his family, must "express it through political action—registering, voting and a lot besides."

The League says that the trouble lies in the low opinion many Americans have of politics.

"THE result of this attitude," the League points out in a pamphlet, "is seen in statistics which show that less than one in every three qualified voters bothers to vote in mayoralty elections; only one in 10 in county elections."

This is when the machine takes over, warns the League. "People who neglect their democratic duties risk losing their democratic rights," it says, adding that the only remedy for what's wrong with American politics is more politics—"acting together to get something done about a common problem."

"The way to make democracy come alive again, as it was in the early days of America," the League suggests, "is for millions of average citizens to wake up and play politics. This doesn't mean that they need run for office. It does mean that they should learn the game and play it hard."

The League stresses the importance of the individual, not as a single voter, but as an active political worker. When he becomes a worker he can multiply his effectiveness many fold, says the League, simply by getting others to go to the polls.

How "pressure groups" serve a purpose in democracy is another angle developed in the pamphlet. The idea is to make those groups which are thoroughly representative of the people useful. It warns against those which represent only one special point of view.

IN DISCUSSING political parties the League says that "machines" can be beaten or can at least be made to serve the average citizen.

The pamphlet also describes the mechanics of a political party, how it operates from precinct up to national committee. It suggests that one good way to get into politics is to run for precinct committeeman on the party ticket.

"This can be achieved by side-walk-pounding and doorbell-ringing."

The citizen then will learn politics "from the inside and will be in a position to get something done about what looked hopeless from the outside."

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

On Playing the Fiddle Badly

A favorite recreation in our town is getting together in one or another's home and making music. There's somebody at the piano; a guitar; a fiddle player; and Molly Birtles even has a harp!

What comes out isn't the best music in the whole world. In fact, a lot of it is downright bad. But nobody even thinks to question or to criticize.

Because the spirit of harmony is there—harmony between folks who like each other's company, who enjoy the simple, homey atmosphere —with nothing more exciting than old songs, and a glass of moderate beer or cider.

From where I sit, we a happy more important to be a poor fiddle player, than not to play at all. More important to be a part of the American scene—with its community music, home entertainment, friendly glass of beer—than to hold out for professional perfection. (Besides, I like to play the fiddle—even badly!)

Stamp News

INSCRIBED "Never Forget,"

a new set of Austrian stamps vividly depicts the horrors and fall of Fascism under Nazi Germany. According to word from London, the stamps were printed some time ago but Allied authorities only recently sanctioned their release.

Values, colors and descriptions are: 1 plus 1 groschen deep red, an upraised hand with a broken handcuff and in the background the colors of Austria and typical Austrian landscape; 2 plus 2 rose, the eagle of Austria rising from flames of a burning swastika; 5 plus 3 sepia brown, a swastika-embellished dagger thrust into the heart of a map of Austria with "1938" in the background; 6 plus 4 light green, a broom sweeping the swastika and fasces symbols from the Austria map.

Others are: 8 plus 6 orange, a burning church enclosed in a crown of thorns; 12 plus 12 gray green, an outstretched hand appealing for help from behind barbed wire; 30 plus 30 lavender, a fist grasping a snake; and 45 plus 45 light brown, a pillar topped by a swastika being felled by a sledge-hammer.

CREWMEN of the "Truculent Turtle," the Navy patrol plane which flew from Perth, Australia, to Columbus, Ohio, in a record-breaking 11,250-mile flight Sept. 29-Oct. 1, provided a philatelic souvenir of the non-stop flight for Secretary of the Navy Forrestal.

They delivered a letter postmarked at Perth before they took off, and at Columbus on their arrival. In the letter they explained the purpose of the flight. The cover pictured a plane of the "Truculent Turtle" type with the inscription "Navy P2V Special Air Mail."

BRAZIL has commemorated its new constitution with an attractive stamp of classical design issued Sept. 17. Inscribed "Constituição de 1946," the gray stamp pictures the head of a woman in a circle with 21 rays, symbolizing the 21 states of Brazil, forming the background. An oak leaf and twigs at the base of the bust symbolize peace. The value of the stamp is 40 centavos.

RECENT reports that Soviet Russia planned to reprint all of its stamp issues are termed erroneous by J. and H. Stolor, New York City stamp wholesalers. They report the following radiogram denial from the Soviet government in Moscow: "Rumors that old issues Soviet stamps going to be reprinted untrue as reprinting old issues never practiced in USSR. Albums commemorating 25th anniversary Soviet postage stamps going to be issued in form of catalogue on dense colored paper. On background colored page shall be pressed stamp retaining original size and perforation.

"Color of stamps shall not be retained. For instance if page of album red, color stamps shall be light pink. Left side each page shall be given annotation each stamp. End of album shall have index explaining each stamp, values, color or stamps. Date of appearance also price not yet fixed."

TWO semi-postals from Finland are among recent arrivals in this country. Both bear the familiar double-barred cross of anti-tuberculosis organizations and the surtax has been earmarked for Finland's National Anti-Tuberculosis League to fight the disease in children. A five plus one markka green shows a nurse with two children. An eight plus two markka brown pictures a physician examining a child. Finland has issued numerous Red Cross semi-postals in the past, but these are the first stamps devoted to tuberculosis prevention.

THE general increase in prices of United States stamps during the past year is reflected in listings of Volume One of the 1947 Standard Postage Stamp Catalogue, just off the press. Even so, many of the prices are still under current market quotations, due in part to the fact that the catalogue prices were set on the basis of market conditions last April, May and June.

Although some of the regular issues are exceptions to the general increase, the following 1946 and 1947 catalogue price comparisons give a fair picture of price rises in the commemorative and airmail field (first price given is 1946 and the second the 1947 listing; prices in all cases are for mint copies).

White Plains souvenir sheet $18 and $17.50; 1934 A.P.S. souvenir sheet (Scott's 750) $1 and $2; 1936 International Philatelic Exhibition souvenir sheet (Scott's 778) 24 and 50 cents; 1940 Famous American series $7.23 and $10.84; 1930 Graf Zeppelin airmails $80 and $122.50, and 1933 Chicago airmail $4 and $7.

Recent spectacular increases in stamps picturing the late President Roosevelt make some of the new catalogue listings already obsolete.

Golden Wedding Of Edward Finlans By Auxiliary For Happy Occasion Council Meeting

Youngsville, Oct. 24—A delightful golden wedding anniversary was celebrated this week by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Finlan, who were married 50 years ago October 20, 1898. The celebration was held at the United Brethren parsonage, 1000 N. Y. St., where the couple have resided for many years, with the exception of short intervals when they lived in Chandler Valley.

The celebration was planned by their four children and families, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Finlan, Bradford, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Finlan, Jean, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hultberg, Chandler Valley, and Glen Finlan and family of Youngsville. Among the 150 guests were all the children and all the grandchildren, with the exception of one grandson, now in New York City.

Open house, afternoon and evening, was held at the newly purchased home of Mr. and Mrs. Finlan on Woodard avenue. The home was attractively decorated with golden chrysanthemums. Refreshments included two three-tiered wedding cakes decorated with golden leaves and seeded with walnuts and ice cream, and a variety of "50" on each slice of ice cream.

Each guest was presented as a souvenir a charming little poem Mr. and Mrs. Edward Finlan by a daughter-in-law and telling in some detail their life as chums during the past 50 years. The poems were printed and placed in envelopes tied with golden ribbon.

Mr. and Mrs. Finlan received congratulations and many lovely gifts, including a purse of money from their friends and relatives. They are both in good health and their kindly friendly personalities have won for them a wide circle of friends.

About 100 guests were present from Olean, N. Y.; Bradford, Chandler Valley, Sugar Grove, Erie, Grand Valley, DeWittville, N. Y., Jamestown, N. Y., Sharon, Smethport, Union City, Erie and other points in this vicinity.

PAK-ers To Step Lively

PAK Patter has it that the Indian sign will be on those boys and girls who can't produce a PAK membership card when they show up at the YWCA activities building on Saturday night for the Halloween dance. Success of these functions in the past is indicated by the fact that it has been found necessary to limit attendance strictly to PAK members and alumni of Club "17." The time will be 8:30 to 11:15, with Harry Summers' Orchestra providing the rhythm. . . . Another bit of dance news found in the new PAK Patter, fresh off the presses today, is announcement of the annual dinner-dance to be held on November 30 in Founders Hall of First Methodist church. Says Patter: "Tentative acceptance as guest speaker has been received from Mr. Erdman Harris, headmaster of Shadyade Academy, Pittsburgh." Price of the dinner-dance will include dancing to follow at the YW. . . . The big day for Green Caps will be November 9, on which Saturday night freshmen and eighth graders will leave Presbyterian church by five o'clock bus for a party at Hemlock. No twelve—no eats, is the warning and all those who want to be on hand are asked to get in touch with Peg Henderson, Bob Dobbs or Jim Aesberil. . . . Another age group, the seniors of Club "17," has plans afoot for a dinner-meeting at Trinity church on November 17, when Tressie Pino will head the following committee: Tom Hampson, Joan Cameron, Jack Kyler and Yvonne Miller. Dinner will be promptly at 6:15 and each member will be contacted concerning reservations. Carl Hull, of Warren Public Library, will be speaker. . . . The Preps notice is short and snappy—activity for November will be a skating party at Forestview Park at Sheffield. Bus leaves Warren at seven p. m. and will be back at 11—but that won't prevent the juniors and sophomores from having one long pleasant evening. PAK's first play of the season is scheduled for November 17 at First Methodist church, directed by Mrs. Brackett Ayers. Try-outs will be held shortly. . . . Westfield young people will pay a visit to the Warren Church of Tomorrow on November 3. Rev. James A. Geiser, pastor, is directing their program, details of which will be given out a bit later. Rev. Geiser was guest speaker for PAK's "Parents Night" in 1943 and has been much interested in PAK ever since. PAK plans to return the visit either this fall or in early spring.

Warren Players To Have Party

Active members of the Warren Players are turning their attention from things theatrical this week and are anticipating their first social event on their crowded calendar.

This will be in the form of a party to be held at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow night at the old Oakview Tavern. Besides dancing, entertainment of an undisclosed nature is to be presented. Lewis Cretelli is in charge of the entertainment and stubbornly refuses to release any advance information regarding it.

Bob and Ellen Specht, who are co-chairmen for the affair, report the refreshments will not be cider and doughnuts as previously announced but that "no one will be disappointed."

Table reservations, as well as transportation, can be arranged by calling the Spechts, 2733.

Personal Paragraphs

Friends will be sorry to learn that Paul DeFrees, 10 Franklin street, suffered a heart attack on Wednesday and has been admitted to Warren General Hospital, where his condition today is said to be fair.

Social Events

WOMEN OF MOOSE

Warren Chapter, 693, Women of the Moose, held its regular meeting Wednesday evening, with Senior Regent Jennie Lauffenberger conducting both this session and the executive committee meeting at 7:30 p. m. Chapter Night awards went to Marion Lulid and Ellen Waples. Plans were made for a social hour and supper for the next meeting, November 6, also for a towel and wash cloth shower for Mooseheart on that date.

The Chapter Night program was in charge of Florence Stites and dealt with Mooseheart and Alumni work. Miss Crimshaw gave a reading and four bride-members were honored with showers. The evening was concluded with serving of refreshments by the committee.

CATHOLIC DAUGHTERS ENJOY MASQUERADE

The Catholic Daughters of America, Court 834, held a masquerade party last evening at eight o'clock in the E. C. clubrooms. The rooms were decorated with black cats, witches, and pumpkins, and tables were appointed in keeping with the Halloween season.

Entertainment for the evening was a clever one-act play, "The Gilding," directed by Mrs. S. E. Giunta and given by Girl Scout Troop 62. The prize for the most original costume was given to Mrs. Stephen Mucha, and to Miss Margaret McNally for the funniest. Games and dancing were enjoyed, with prizes awarded to Mrs. Chas. Mahood and Mrs. Charles Musante.

At a late hour refreshments were served by a committee headed by Mrs. R. W. Harrison, Mrs. James Lytle and Mrs. Arthur Shine.

MRS. HIGHHOUSE IS GUEST FOR BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Lydia Highhouse, who is now a guest at the Watson Memorial Home, was tendered a delightful birthday party Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Robert Yaegle, the former home of the honored guest. A few of her very close neighbors were invited and the time was happily spent in talking over old and new events.

She was presented with a number of gifts from the group and little Susan Yaegle, five year old daughter of the hostess, proved an able assistant to her mother. Later, all were seated at a beautifully decorated table for refreshments which featured a special birthday cake.

ASK RESERVATIONS FOR YWCA BENEFIT

Reservations for the benefit card party to be held at the YWCA on Tuesday evening, October 29, are being made at the YW office and committee members ask that, insofar as possible, these should be in by Saturday.

The party is being held for the benefit of the World Fellowship Fund and three committees of the local association are busy working on plans. Mrs. Robert Trusler, Mrs. W. F. Bennett and Mrs. Harold Warren, with their committee members, have tickets for those who have not already procured them.

SOCIAL EVENING AT BAPTIST CHURCH

There will be a social supper at the First Baptist church at 6:30 p. m. Friday, followed by a motion picture, "South of the Border," a Walt Disney production. A program of games and entertainment has been planned for the remainder of the evening.

1st PRESBYTERIAN JUNIORS TO PARTY
Teachers and children of the junior department of First Pres-

WASHINGTON UNIT HEARS FINE TALKS
There was a good attendance for the regular meeting of the Washington P.T.A., held Wednesday evening in the Trena school building. Routine business was considered during the session conducted by the president, Mrs. Shirley Bean, and the evening was then turned over to the chairman of the entertainment committee, C. E. Sherrieb.

The principal presented Sam Gerard, county health officer, who gave an interesting talk regarding health conditions in the county. Dr. L. E. Chapman was then presented and his talk on cancer was very instructive. Both speakers were honored with hearty applause.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up at night. Frequent urination, backaches, and burning or stinging passages with urination and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisons to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging headache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches, and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's gives happy relief and will help the 15 miles of filters to wash out poisons and waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Beaver county leads the decrease list with 4. For the first 8 months in 1946, 271 pedestrians in the age groups under 15 and 65-and-over met their deaths in motor vehicle traffic accidents compared with 202 in the age group 15-to-64. During the month of August a total of 3, under-15-years and over-64-years of age were killed compared with 20 in the age group 15-to-64. Attention must be concentrated on this youngest group. Why should 15 children under 15 years of age be killed on our streets and highways by a motor vehicle? And of these number, 4 (10), were under the age of 4. It was stated that during the war this age group could not be cared for adequately because parents were working. The war is over and the death rate is higher. In this age group under 4, 3 were killed in 1946 compared with 3 in 1945. The figures pointed were in the urban areas only. In the rural areas last year the same 15 and 16. Motor vehicle accidents at last appear to have taken a downward trend. For the month of July there were 8 less deaths than during July 1945 and during the month of August the number was halved 125 to 13. The total number of deaths by this type of accident is 1645-115 and 1646-149.

Cattle Raising Project Under Way Rivals Anything In State

R. R. Weller, of Tidoute, owner of the Weller Land and Livestock Company, of Tidoute is enlarging his herds and expects within a few months to have a herd of at least 500 choice broadbanded Herford cattle grazing on his land. He has specialized in cattle raising for some years and has purchased several farms in the vicinity of Tidoute where he has raised some choice cattle for the market.

He has just concluded negotiations with the United States Government for the use of lands within the Tionesta Dam reservoir area for pasturing of a large number of cattle. Grazing rights will allow the movement of the herds over a large area of the government lands.

The work of fencing and posting of the area against the use of firearms will begin immediately and it will withdraw a large section from the hunting lands of Forest county. Precautions will also be taken against rustlers and trespassers and guards will patrol the grazing lands.

The Weller herds are well known in this area for producing of excellent meat cattle and the Herford breed is especially good for the purpose desired. The herd will be one of the largest in the state when it is fully developed.

Bakeries and Plants Making Cakes, Candy—Out of Sugar

Well girls when the boy friend comes in for an evening you will just have to scurry around and serve him sour pickles or some other concoction in which sugar has no part. There simply "aint no sugar". The shortage now is worse than it was during the war years and it's all due to the strike of the ship workers outside of Philadelphia, New York and other ports there are oodles of ships loaded with sweet stuff that can't be unloaded because the boys won't work.

So what are you going to do? Go without.

Some of the stores have some sugar but most of the folks have no sugar stamps. To ease that situation there is talk, just talk so far, that sugar ration stamps 9 and 10 may have their life extended. They were supposed to expire on October 31, but being as how they just ain't any sugar they may get a new lease of life until Uncle Sam is able to rustle up a supply.

In the meantime bakers, candy factories and soft drink plants are suffering. Over the country plenty of bakeries are hanging out the "Closed" sign due to the scarcity. Pop makers are having difficulty getting enough to sweeten the water they put in the bottles and the boys and gals that gather at the pop fountains will soon find they can only gather at the dry fountain.

Cakes and cookies turned out by bakeries will be growing scarcer and scarcer and the bird who has been used to dunking his cookies and sweet rolls in the morning will have to switch to hard rolls and unsweetened Java.

It's a hard life, eh folks.

McKenney On Bridge

DEFENDER DISREGARDS 'RULE' AND WINS

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Written for NEA Service

At one time it was said that Cleveland was the center of duplicate bridge in the United States. The Cleveland Whist Club is one of the most effective bridge organizations in the country today.

Their annual Ohio State Tournament has long been outstanding and now their Cedar Point Tournament the largest in bridge. Ninety-six pairs competed this year in their open-pair event, which was won by Daniel Mahoney, of New York, one of our tournament directors, and Mrs. R. H. Rishell, of Jersey Shore, Pa. Tournament directors do not get a chance to play often, but I was not surprised when Mahoney carried off this championship, as I think very well of his game.

He made a nice defensive play on today's hand to get top score for his side. Most of the pairs arrived at four hearts and made it, but not against Mahoney. On the opening lead declarer went up with dummy's king of spades and Mahoney (East) won. He cashed the jack of spades, then instead of leading a club or a trump as most of the other East players did, Mahoney led the third spade, forcing declarer to trump in dummy.

Generally defenders hesitate to allow the declarer to get a ruff. Now declarer had to pull three rounds of trumps in order to pick up Mahoney's jack. Then when he played the diamonds, Mahoney stayed off until the second round, and there was no way for declarer to keep from losing a club trick.

There is no such thing as "always" or "never" in bridge. Here a defender deliberately violated the rule not to allow declarer to ruff his losers, and it is the only way to defeat the contract.

American Press Institute Is Launched For Newspapermen

By JAMES MARLOW
New York — (AP)—Something is happening here which should have some effect on you, the newspaper reader.

Some years ago Sevelton Brown, editor and publisher of The Providence (Rhode Island) Journal-Bulletin, set in on a lecture at the Columbia University School of Journalism.

Brown thought, as he listened: What a lot of good my own editorial writers would get if they could hear this.

Why couldn't all newspapermen—editorial writers, managing editors, city editors and general re-

Saw Goering

Rev. Henry F. Garcke, of St. Louis, Mo., the Nuernberg prison chaplain who holds the rank of captain in the Army, was the last person to see and talk to Hermann Goering before the convicted Nazi leader cheated fellows by committing suicide.

porters—put out better papers if they could set around, exchange ideas, listen to experts, question experts?

Back of his thinking was this. The whole problem of putting out a newspaper which can inform its readers intelligently becomes more complicated yearly as the problems of nations and people grow.

Over a period of time Brown talked with many newspaper publishers about his idea. This year 38 of them, agreeing with him, put up more than $160,000 and created The American Press Institute.

The Columbia School of Journalism is letting the institute use several of its rooms as meeting places.

Floyd Taylor—foreign correspondent, editorial writer and teacher in the journalism school—was made director of the institute. Claude Jagger, assistant general manager of The Associated Press, was appointed associate director. He is on loan from the A.P.

Managing editors and editors of 25 papers—some of their papers were not among the contributors of the $160,000—were chosen to come to the institute for three weeks.

The newspapers which sent these men here—far more asked than were chosen—are paying the institute $180 a week for each of them. That covers their room on the campus, board, university fees and other expenses.

(Their salaries while they are here, of course, are paid by their papers.)

Every day from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. they sit around the table. Experts from various fields, including newspapering, come and talk to the editors and then are open to questions.

The experts are some of these: Newsmen who are labor experts, labor leaders, George Gallup, the public opinion specialist; men who have ideas about making newspapers more readable.

The editors not only quiz the experts and pick up ideas from them but question each other, sometimes bluntly, because some of the editors are critical about the way some other editors' papers are run.

After three weeks this group goes home. In batches of 25, they'll be followed by city editors, picture editors, and general news reporters. Each group will have sessions which last three or four weeks.

When monkeys are observed searching through the coats of their companions, they are not looking for fleas, but small appetites of salt, the result of evaporation.

Condemned

Mrs. Evelyn MacLean Dick, 36, convicted of the torso murder of her husband at Hamilton, Ontario, last March, is calm and steady as she leaves court after hearing the judge sentence her to be hanged. Her alleged sweetheart, Bill Bohozuk, and her father, Donald MacLean, also are charged with murder.

FIRST PHOTO—An 'Outsider's' View of the Earth

The strange-looking picture above is one of the most remarkable photographs ever taken. First of its kind, it is a picture of the earth, photographed from a height of 40 miles. The picture was taken by the U. S. Navy with a 16-mm. motion picture camera fastened to the V-2 rocket recently fired at White Sands Proving Grounds, New Mexico. The rocket was traveling at a speed of a mile a second—3600 miles per hour. The area in the photograph, about ten miles long by eight miles wide, is part of the New Mexico desert. Preliminary examination indicates the dark band running across the picture may be a shock wave. If so, it is the first time such a wave has been photo-

Dig Another Grave

By DON CAMERON

Chapter 20

"DOWNSTAIRS?" Hemingway asked. He nodded toward the center of the floor. Martin saw the corner of a trapdoor just beyond the fringed end of a carpet.

Morrissey shook his head. "Not yet. I want to enjoy this and it's more comfortable here. Frisk him, Hemingway."

Hemingway moved up behind Martin and emptied his pockets one by one. He made a little pile of his findings on the desk.

"Not what I'm after," he said. "Here's hoping you hid it where no one else will find it, Marty. It will be safe there, because you'll never get it unless you get it for me."

A faint draft seemed to blow upon the back of Martin's neck; he felt it more keenly than the throbbing of his wrist or the burning of his cheek. He was desperately afraid, but even more afraid of showing it. The only hope for Barbara and himself, he thought, lay in a colossal bluff.

"I've just come from Homicide Squad headquarters and I've made some phone calls. Enough people know where I am to tear this joint to pieces brick by brick."

"It's insured," Morrissey smiled bleakly. "And they'll never find you in these cellars."

"It's the rat in you," said Martin. "But there are ways to exterminate them in their cellars and sewers when a man puts his mind to it."

"I expected you to call me a rat," Morrissey said softly. "It's names I particularly dislike." He nodded curtly to Hemingway. "Show Marty how much I dislike it."

Chapter 21

CLOUD had caught up with Morrissey, all right. He said without preliminaries, "You're under arrest. You, Morrissey, for kidnapping. You, Hemingway, for general principles till we can find a better reason. You, King, as a material witness in the Searle case. You might have avoided it if you hadn't run out. You, Dexter, are the one exception: I have nothing on you except that you keep bad company."

"You haven't anything on me, either," Morrissey said. "I'll want to phone my lawyer."

"That's all right. He won't be able to spring you. Mickey Kogon, the bum you imported from Philadelphia, with the late Danny Myers, has talked, and so has Joe Lark."

"They don't worry me. What can they prove?"

Cloud looked frostily at Martin. "What a big jaw you have, grandma. Wisdom tooth?"

"Never mind. Look, Cloud, those snatches spoke of Barbara Ennis. She's missing. Morrissey pricked me. He told me he'd had her picked up."

The front door opened again and Doran entered. He seemed surprised to find Cloud and the others there. He nodded to Marty. "Just passing by," he said. "Thought I'd have a quick drink. What's the conversation about?"

"Right now," Martin said, "it's about Barbara Ennis. What did you find out, Bill?"

"Nothing. I made all the calls I could think of."

"Did you report it?"

Doran shook his head. "I wouldn't without seeing Ennis. How do I know they aren't together?"

"Together in a trap, maybe," Martin said angrily, "with Morrissey's gunmen guarding them, ready to kill them if things look bad."

Cloud said, "You've been reading the comic strips. Nothing's going to happen to her."

The telephone in Morrissey's office rang. Doran said, "It may be for me."

"Or for me," said Cloud, heading off Morrissey.

It was for Cloud. His voice, answering, reached all of them. He said, "That's mighty interesting. No, don't turn them loose just yet. Tell Haggerty to bring them both to the Gold Mine Club. . . . Yes, right now."

Cloud looked at Martin, smiling faintly. "You'll be glad to know Barbara is in good hands. She and her father will join us shortly. I wasn't worried about her because I had her failed, too—right to that garage where you rented the car you smashed up the other morning. Both of them were after the letters you hid under the carpet."

Morrissey looked at Dexter. "So," he said.

Martin told Morrissey, "Dexter didn't know where your letter was, if that's what you're making faces about. But I knew, and I was hoping it would help burn you."

"Now, now," Cloud chimed. "Morrissey, I think it would be nice if all of us, including those who haven't yet arrived, could sit down together and compare notes about the murders of Searle and Mrs. Messmer. I'd planned on a jam session at headquarters, but this may save some persons the indignity of being police guests. Do you feel like closing down your bar business for an hour in the interest of justice?"

Morrissey shrugged. "Why not?" He yelled at a white-jacketed man behind the bar, "Put out the lights, Pete. No service till I give the word."

EIGHT people faced each other in a circle. Eight uneasy people drawn into an ill-matched group by the crimson thread of murder, and of them only Cloud was not on trial for his life at this moment. Of the seven others, at least one had the ugliest of all crimes on his conscience. Knowing it was not himself, Martin nevertheless felt insecure as he studied the faces around him; he

He started to shake his head but that was too painful. "Only surprised. I didn't think Hemingway was quite so dumb."

Dexter pleaded, "You've got to play ball, Marty. I know Morrissey better than you, and while he tries to avoid trouble, he doesn't pull his punches when it comes. That's why I hustled over here as soon as Doran called me."

"I want to find out about Barbara."

"He hasn't done a thing about her. He swears it and I'm sure it's the truth. He might have you snatched and pushed around, but no Ennis daughter—not while he expects Ennis to do him favors."

"He practically admitted he had her."

"He was trying to make a deal with you. If it would help for you to go on thinking that, why should he change your mind?"

"Well, the letter's out, anyway. Cloud found it two days ago. I didn't know it till night before last."

"Too bad," Dexter looked grave. "If you won't tell Morrissey, let him think you don't know it even yet—but he'll be sore when he finds out."

"Let's go," he said. "I need some aspirin."

They started out of the office. Morrissey, leaning against a table with his back to the front entrance, watched them approach. Over Morrissey's shoulder Martin saw the dimly lit doors open, saw figures of men silhouetted against daylight. Cloud came first, followed by Williams, Weber and a patrolman in uniform.

Martin said, "Looks like they've caught up with you, Morrissey."

Cloud dominated the circle. Everyone watched him breathlessly as he thumbed the pages of a notebook, frowning. When his gray eyes lifted there was an increase of tension as if each were bracing himself for what was coming. When he spoke, Cloud's voice was even and impersonal.

"I could have saved myself trouble by throwing the whole kit and caboodle of you into cells in the beginning. That way I'd have dodged a lot of criticism from the newspapers and let the District Attorney decide which suspect he'd prefer to prosecute. But because I preferred not to make difficulties for innocent people—which all but one or two of you unquestionably are—I've forced myself to go slowly, gathering evidence where I could and testing it as I went along. It hasn't been easy and I can't say I've managed to win the confidence of any of you."

He tapped the notebook. "I've jotted down the main points of the evidence as it touches each person here. I'm going through it now briefly. When I've finished, we'll talk. I don't want just your explanations and alibis, but also whatever real information you may be able to offer and whatever considered opinions you may hold. I want you to be as fair and frank as you dare to be."

"This is your last chance, if you're innocent, to get clear of this case without going through the official mill. We've had two murders and in investigating them we've had to kill a criminal who did his best to murder two of my detectives. I'm not going to risk any more lives."

When we're through here—when we've exhausted all the possibilities of this informal gathering—I'm going to take the murderer with me, or else the whole lot of you."

He paused, and an unhappy cough from Ennis was the only sound in the room.

Chapter 22

HOWARD MORRISSEY, successful businessman, came first.

"A twenty-five-thousand-dollar motive for killing Searle," Cloud said, "plus a grudge that may have meant more than money. You made threats against him. The night of the murder you'd lost your last reasonable hope of getting back the money he'd stolen. No one saw you during the hour in which the murder was committed, but you were in your office with Hemingway, discussing business. Neither of you qualifies as an unprejudiced witness for the other. Your office door was locked, but I happen to know there are secret ways in and out. Either or both of you could have killed Searle."

George Ennis, ultra-respectable publisher of an ultra-respectable newspaper, squirmed with the realization that it was his turn.

"You," said Cloud, "are without an alibi that can be proven for the time of either murder. You were being blackmailed by Searle."

Ennis sat tongue-tied and perspiring as Cloud turned his attention to the next suspect.

Lee Dexter, dapper and brilliant, angled his waxed yellow mustache nervously.

There was sympathy in Cloud's glance and in his voice. "I've managed to get so little on you, Dexter, that I'd just as soon skip it for the present if you don't mind."

"You can skip it forever," Dexter replied. "I don't fancy the idea of being charged with murder."

Cloud, said coldly, "You're a star suspect, Hemingway. You'd have killed Searle willingly, either as a chore for Morrissey or to relieve your personal feelings. If Mrs. Messmer had been dangerous because of anything she knew, you wouldn't have hesitated about her, either. You have a record that could convict you of practically anything all by itself. Besides, other indications that you're the man we want are numerous and impressive."

"I don't know what all you've got," Hemingway said, "but I'm sure he's surprised if you pin those things on me, because I didn't do them."

Bill Doran, seated beside Hemingway, ran a thick hand through his iron-gray hair and chuckled suddenly. His nervousness had vanished; he was once more the veteran of the city desk, weighing his fellowmen in scales counterbalanced with type metal.

"What's so funny?" Cloud asked.

"Just that Hemingway put into words exactly what I was thinking," said Doran. "I wouldn't be here if I'd minded my own business, and it occurred to me that it would be quite a joke if you decided, after looking over the others, that I was the likeliest one of the lot."

"Did you have any personal reason for wanting to expose Searle?"

"Lieutenant," said Doran, "I did not. And I'm sorry I opened my big mouth a minute ago. On second thought, the idea of pinning it on me doesn't seem funny."

"Maybe we'll come back to you," Cloud told him. "I can't afford to overlook any bets."

He swung his regard to the next suspect in order and Doran breathed a sigh of relief.

Martin King.

"Too cocky altogether," Cloud said. "First the impulse, then the act, then the thinking about it. Many a homicide happens just that way."

"You sure are stubborn," Martin murmured.

"Your intellect may function tardily, but it's capable of seeing the black marks against you as clearly as I could outline them. So just remember that if I don't get my bigger game, I can always fall back on you."

Martin made no reply. Of the seven on trial at the round table only one remained to be indicted. There was a sharp heightening of tension which Martin did not quite understand. He noted that Ennis' face was white and sickly, that Dexter had straightened, that even Morrissey seemed more interested than when his own case had been under discussion.

BARBARA ENNIS sensed the change. She glanced at the others. "You're all looking at Searle, Miss Ennis, as you know," Cloud said slowly. "They tell nothing except that at one time you expected to become his wife and eventually discovered you had made a bad mistake. They indicate a degree of intimacy that could be made to seem about as bad as he'd want to make it. Standards of modesty change with the times, but a girl's reputation is still her biggest asset, and there isn't any question that your reputation would have been at stake if he'd succeeded in dragging your name into his trial."

"You had something of tremendous importance to fight for when Searle left the Gold Mine Club that night with your letters. He went to King's apartment after you arrived there shortly afterward. King found you both minutes later—and one of you has been murdered."

"You—you make it sound pretty hopeless," she said, breathing hard.

"The evidence is circumstantial," Cloud remarked, "but it's nearly conclusive. I find it difficult to explain even to myself why haven't asked for a warrant naming you."

Martin's whole being rebelling at the brutal logic of Cloud's argument and its effect on Barbara. He was about to say something anything, in protest when Cloud changed his tactics abruptly, leaning back and including all them in the challenge of his narrowed eyes, ladies and gentlemen."

"All right, ladies and gentlemen," Cloud said. "That's a contribution to the program. I have several choice suspects and if necessary I'll take them all headquarters and have the truth sweated out. But first I'll wait actively two minutes, which will ample time for one of you to decide to confess or to squeal someone else; frankly, I don't care which."

PLAN ARMISTICE DINNER

The American Legion Auxiliary met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Wood. The attendance was large. Over 45 members were reported paid up for their 1947 dues. It was hoped to raise that number to ten more before the inter-county council meeting at Mt. Jewett on Saturday Oct. 26th. It is expected that there will be a number attend from Youngsville as the officers for the coming year for the local Auxiliary will be installed at this council meeting. These officers recently elected are Mrs. Florence Mourer, president; Mrs. Warren Jones, vice president; Mrs. Mildred Jones, secretary; Mrs. Lena Mourer, treasurer; Mrs. Frank Black, chaplain; and Mrs. Geo. Schmidt, Sgt. of Arms.

A committee was appointed Tuesday evening to collaborate with the Legion, who happen to be meeting in their new Legion home next door to Woods, and make plans for the Armistice dinner. The result was that the two organizations decided on having a tureen dinner Monday evening Nov. 11th at 6:00 p. m. All service men and women and their families are invited. Each one is asked to bring tureen, table service and sugar if desired. The auxiliary will take care of the dining room arrangements and the Legion are planning a program for the evening.

Fine refreshments were served to the auxiliary by the hostess and her October committee.

North Warren Water Supply Plans Going Ahead Nicely

North Warren, this city's progressive suburb will have its own water supply within the next few months as plans to that end are moving along in excellent shape. The North Warren Water Authority set up some months ago after being approved by the state has been quickly at work and many of the rough edges on the plan have been smoothed out ready to go.

A meeting was held last week with an engineer from the Chester Engineering Company, of Pittsburgh, which firm is handling the engineering problems of the authority. He had a study of the proposed system and well prepared plans and specifications that can be submitted to representatives of bonding companies. When all are complete bids on the bonds will be asked for. Once the money is available the active construction of the system can be undertaken.

Already between 200 and 250 prospective customers have been signed up for water service and locations have been assigned for the placing of hydrants for fire service. The presence of hydrants available for fire will save citizens of North Warren considerable money in insurance rates.

A favorable proposal has been received from the Warren Water Company for the furnishing of a water supply to the community. The Water Company plans to extend a large main up Conewango avenue as far as Venturatown. There a crossing of the Conewango Creek will be made and the south end of the North Warren mains will be connected with the Warren Water Company lines near the bridge across Jackson Run.

While progress may seem slow to many the Authority members are proceeding with care in all of their work so that no hitch will develop later in the installation of the system.

Johnson, of Weldbank had shot another bear which was molesting his hives of bees as untrue. Mr. Johnson has not shot any bear except the two recently reported, according to Game Protector Norris.

No further reports of the black panther which has been roaming this area for some weeks past have been received but a sharp lookout for it is being kept by residents of the county. Many hunters are prepared to get into the district where the panther is next reported and hunt down the critter.

Tionesta Motorist Tangles With Deer On Rt. 62 Today

C. H. Carter, of Tionesta, who is employed in this city by the Royal Manufacturing Company had an adventure with a deer this morning while on his way to Warren. The Carter car was being operated with great care due to the heavy fog when suddenly there was a heavy thump on the side of the car. Knowing something heavy had struck the machine Carter stopped and investigated. A young deer of considerable size lay on the highway beside the car.

As Carter watched, the animal stretched out and relaxed and seemed to die. Thinking the killing of the animal would have to be reported Carter brought the deer into the Warren police station. Between Irvine and Warren the deer revived and began kicking and thrashing around in the truck where it had been placed. At the police station Officer Clarence Park examined the animal and it seemed alive and husky so the car was driven to Keagle's Grove on the South Side and the deer was released. Once free it stood for a moment and then hoisting its white flag it dashed into the woods.

Game Protector George Norris has been busy during the past few days due to the activity of bears in various sections of the county. The big animals seem to be in greater numbers than for years passed and reports are coming in from all portions of the county relative to their depredations. At the farm of Henry Sorenson, Cherry Grove, the animals recently visited his bee hives and did about $20 damage. Mr. Sorenson notified Protector Norris and he visited the farm and made payment for the damage.

Last evening a button buck jumped in front of a truck of the Clarendon Torpedo Company as the truck was being driven back to Clarendon after a well had been shot near Wardwell. The deer was killed and was picked up by Game Protector Norris and guests at the Rouse hospital will enjoy deer meat. There were explosives on the truck at the time.

Visitors report that Mina Reeder at her home on Doty Run has an interesting group gathered every day at meal time. She has a pet dog that sits in a high chair and eat while in a porridge dish nearby a deer enjoys its gruel. A red ribbon has been tied about the animals neck and it has developed into a real pet of the family. Reports current that David

RIDGWAY WILL BE A POTENT CLUB ON SAT.

When the Warren Dragons tangle they will have a really tough game on their hands, for the Ridgway team is nothing to reckon with. Although Ridgway is a comparatively small town, a very tough one at that, they always put out a fighting team, and it is never wise to predict a big score over them for they always manage to hold it down some way.

As a weak expression of Ridgway's strength, I will quote some facts having to do with that team. Sykesville has a very tough team, and for those who do not know him, it will be proven. A couple weeks ago, Sykesville played New Bethlehem and the latter team emerged from the game with three major injuries, two men with broken ribs and one with a brain concussion. Sykesville is no longer allowed to play home games because one of their star players took a punch at one of the officials following a home game. The boy was suspended from athletics and the team banned of all their football home games for the season. With a team that tough, Ridgway battled to a 0-0 tie. If Ridgway can do that, they have really something in my book, and even if they were held to a scoreless tie by Youngsville a couple weeks back, the game was played in the rain and cannot be judged as a regular game, that is they cannot be judged as to their strength. Even at that the Ridgway team had Youngsville on the go most of the time and threatened on the one foot line just before the half. Yes, Ridgway has a tough team to get along with, and a good team to get along without. The Warren team is expected to be in good shape for the game Saturday with all injuries pretty well healed, except that we see Don Duckett limping slightly yet from injuries received in the last two games.

The band will be at the game Saturday and have been pulling undercover practices at Russell Field within the past few days. Maybe they're going to spring a surprise on us.

Penn Sports Really Tough Forward Wall

By HERB ALTSCHULL
Philadelphia, Oct. 24—(AP)—The seven pillars of Pennsylvania who make up the University of Pennsylvania's staunch forward wall may go down in gridiron history along with the seven Iron Dukes of Duke and the seven clocks of granite of Fordham.

Rae Crowthers, Penn's line coach, says he believes he has perhaps one of the finest lines in Penn's history. He won't compare that forward wall with the all-time greats, but many fans who have seen Penn roll up 145 points in three games rate that line with the best.

OAKFIELDERS WILL FURNISH TOUGH GAME

Hoping to keep his charges in high gear Coach Ken Whisner has called practice for tonight on Beatty Field, and states that another session will be held Friday evening, same place, and at usual time.

He wants no letdown following last Sunday's gruelling engagement with the McKeesport Vets, and is expecting another tough tilt this Sunday in meeting the Oakfield, N. Y., Pros on Russell Field.

At this time little is known about Oakfield excepting that the team averages slightly over 200 pounds and that it boasts a good record, with wins over Rochester, Lockport and several of the best Buffalo clubs.

Oakfield, however, comes highly touted as a team fit to furnish the fast stepping Jackets with plenty of opposition, and was recommended to the Jacket management by Buffalo football officials as a worthy opponent for the Warrenites.

The local players, although hammered hard, all come out of last Sunday's scrap in good shape, excepting Johnny Imperial, right end, who suffered a broken bone in his hand, but who is expected to be at his usual post shortly.

A week from Sunday the Sharon Merchants, coached by Mike Sebastian, will be the attraction here at which time the Jackets hope to even the series as the Sharonites whipped the locals, 7 to 3, early in the season, at Oil City.

lagher and end Bob Sponaugle. Dickerson and Savitsky were selected All-East and All-Pennsylvania last year, Dickerson winning a berth on the second all-America eleven and Savitsky being named to the third team. Each won the lineman of the week award last year.

Just yesterday Gallagher joined the select group of linemen of the week. Crowthers calls Gallagher "the finest lineman I have seen this year."

Jenkins also received individual commendation. The glue-fingered end who caught six touchdowns passes last year pulled one of the brilliant line feats of the infant season when he tricked three Virginia University blockers, slid to their left and brought down the ball carrier so hard that he fumbled the pigskin. Then Jenkins lunged out and covered the ball.

Grain, who has been named Penn's captain for the Navy game Saturday, is a big, husky ex-GI as is Dickerson who pounced on four fumbles in last year's navy contest.

SCHOOL GRID SQUADS MEET STRONG CLUBS

By TOM SHIVER
Harrisburg, Oct. 24—(AP)—The last week-end of October finds both the Eastern and Western Conference teams in the midst of close title races and non-conference scholastic eleven engagements in crucial battles across Pennsylvania.

The feature attraction in the Eastern Conference will be played tonight when Shenandoah invades Kulpmont. Both were handed jolts last week with Minersville halting Kulpmont's 2 game winning streak, and Mr. Carmel holding Shenandoah to a 7-7 deadlock, but the two teams are still in the title fight and tonight's winner will move nearer the head of the list.

In the Western Conference four undefeated teams are battling for supremacy, with Belwood-Antic present leader, playing host to Roaring Spring, Huntingdon, winner of 21 straight, invading Hollidaysburg; unbeaten Westmont going to Somerset for a real battle; and unbeaten Fendale journeying to Bedford for another close tilt.

YOUNGVILLE HAS BENEFIT GAME

Coach Artie Amann, of Youngsville, announces this noon that his Eagle gridgers will meet the Youngsville Alumni in a benefit game to be held on Wilder Field, Saturday afternoon at 2:30. All proceeds will go to Charlie Jones, Youngsville's kicking fullback, who received a broken leg in the first Youngsville-Sheffield game of the season. Young Jones will have to have a plate put in his leg because of the accident. The Alumni team will consist of players who have graduated on the class of 1942 and later.

While these conferences are clashing the big game of the week-end will be played at Meadville where Coach Freston Ditty's unbeaten, untied, and unscored upon Bulldogs rush their streak and a Windber makes its annual invasion of Altoona; German Township plays at Johnstown; with Sharpesville risking a seven game winning streak at Grove City; Titusville playing at Franklin; Ebensburg at Indiana; Kane at Bradford; Butler at Oil City; and East High of Akron, Ohio at Erie East in Western features.

Pre-Season Hunters To Be Rounded Up

To many pre-season game law violations are occurring, according to game officials, who announced today that District Game Protectors and hundreds of Deputies will work day and night from now on in an effort to break up the practice, which they believe has increased this year due to the meat shortage and a plentiful supply of game. At any rate there has been an epidemic of major violations in various sections of the state which resulted in 163 prosecutions having been brought in September for which penalties in the amount of $6,857.00 was collected.

Officials said that while the majority of these were for pre-season shooting, there were many apprehensions made for spot lighting and killing deer at night. Most of the defendants in these cases were fined $200.00, in addition to the suspension of their hunting and trapping privileges for a period of years.

Officials said there is no worse violator than the cheat who robs law abiding hunters of their sport by pre-season shooting and rounded sportsmen, landowners and others that it is their duty to report any person they observe violating the game laws either before season, during the season, or after the season.

Graduation Is Only Thing To Catch Cadets

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor
New York, Oct. 24—(NEA)—Steve Owen tells Army's opponents how to stop Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis.

"Let 'em graduate," says the coach of the New York football Giants.

West Point easily could have beaten Columbia, 100-0, yet Red Blaik seemed alarmed when the Lions marched 70 yards for a touchdown against the second-string cadets, leaving them trailing by only four touchdowns late in the third period.

Anyway, back in went Mr. Inside and Mr. Outside.

Columbia's kick-off bounced along the lawn, and Blanchard snatched the ball out of Davis' hands taking it on the long hop on his eight. It was psychological warfare as the Bishopville Bomber went straight down the middle. No Lion dared stick his head in that lion's mouth. It was one of the finest "After you, Alphonse" acts ever seen on a college field.

No one as much as made a pass at the 205 pounds of flying fullback, who was merely sight-seeing by the time he struck mid-field.

"I was hoping that no one would get in his way," said assistant coach Bill Donelli of Morningside Heights. "There was no sense in anybody getting killed."

On one occasion, cutting directly across the field in eluding defenders, Junior Davis cleaned off the entire Columbia bench.

The 21 states permitting pari-mutuel betting collected $70,000,000 in taxes during 1945.

55th Anniversary Luncheon-Program For the Philomel

President's Day, marking the beginning of a new fall and winter season for Philomel Club members, was enjoyed Wednesday with a delightful one o'clock luncheon in celebration of the organization's 55th anniversary.

Decorations for the tables, as well as the music room, were artistically done by Mrs. Harold Blair, using autumn foliage, berries and greens, with tables lighted by ivory candles in green holders. With the dessert course came a beautifully decorated birthday cake, trimmed with music symbols and topped with a tiny grand piano, a gift from the club president, Mrs. Mayme Ekey.

Mrs. Althe Russell, past president and one of the club's most active members for many seasons, spoke briefly concerning the early days of the club, then the Warren Piano Club, and of its development and progress made possible by a loyal membership. She paid tribute in well chosen words to those who are no longer on the club roster and expressed the hope that the organization will go on through many more successful years.

In a few impromptu remarks, Mrs. George Muir paid tribute to Mrs. Russell's efforts and activities in behalf of the club.

For the brief meeting which followed upstairs, Mrs. Ekey extended a welcome to members and guests, with a special word for two absent members recently reinstated, Mrs. William Glassman and Mrs. J. E. Hazeltine, an active member who has returned, Martha Maitland Jackson, and three new members, Mrs. Leo Gleese, Mrs. Beecher Rutledge and Mrs. H. C. Putnam. She also made announcement of the next meeting before presenting the surprise program of the afternoon.

The opening number was the "Federation Collect", sung by Mrs. Joseph DeFrees, Mrs. Roy Krebs, Mrs. Everett Borg, Mrs. Carl Landquist, Mrs. George Muir and Mrs. J. A. Johnson, with Mrs. Harold Flowers as piano accompanist.

The remainder of the afternoon was devoted to enjoyment of a beautiful piano recital given by Virginia Marks Reed, of Erie, Pa. Reed, whose musical career has been shared with the care of three small children and a home in Erie, did considerable study here with Dr. Leroy B. Campbell in earlier years and is much in demand as soloist and accompanist in her home city. She made several appearances at Chautauqua this summer and is always well received by her audiences.

Rotary-Farmer Dinner Will Be Resumed

It will be good news to many men in Warren and surrounding communities that the annual Rotary-Farmer banquets are to be resumed with dinner and a program at the YWCA activities building on Monday evening, November 18.

Following dinner at seven o'clock, the committee will present as guest speaker Carroll B. Champlin, professor of education at Pennsylvania State College, Prof. Champlin, who has just returned after spending several months in Europe, will speak on "Our American Interest in the Post-war World."

Other program events will feature selections by a high school string ensemble in charge of Harry A. Summers, and numbers by the Rotary double quartet.

YOUNGVILLE NEWS

Youngville, Oct. 24—Youngville senior and junior high school are now planning a pleasing Halloween party open to the public and following something of the same plan which has proved so popular in the past. Pupils are asked to come in costume with prizes offered. Each class through junior and senior high school will put on a stunt with awards for these. Refreshments will be served. This Halloween party will be held in the school gymnasium on Tuesday evening Oct. 29th.

The school pupils below the junior high school will be remembered by a party sponsored by the Business Peoples Association on Wednesday evening Oct. 30th. These pupils are also asked to come in costume and prizes will be given. There will be forms of entertainment and a luncheon for the pupils. The public is welcome to observe this party.

Youngville Volunteer Fire Company are again planning a Halloween party on Oct. 30th in the I.O.O.F. Hall with the Beebe's orchestra playing for round or square dancing. This party is always a benefit for the Youngville Volunteer Fire Company. This group use their returns wisely for the benefit of the community in giving better equipment for fire fighting and for resuscitation equipment of those overcome by smoke or fumes of any kind or near drowning.

The firemen always welcome donations from those who do not care to attend the party and have sent out envelopes for the convenience of those who desire to help the boys who respond so quickly and with efficiency to fight fires in the community and to help in other disasters.

Public Invited To Girl Scout Week Service

To everyone in the community interested in Girl Scouting—and that should include just about everybody since Girl Scouting is a community project—the Warren county Girl Scouts extend a cordial invitation to join them Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at Beatty school to see what is really meant by "Girl Scouts' Own".

With the Paris Peace conference just finished and delegates from 51 nations now gathered in New York, it is natural that this year the theme chosen for Girl Scout Sunday is "Internationalism".

What do little girls know about internationalism? Well, in the first place they will gather to learn about this subject in the way it concerns them. Mrs. William Glassman has a wealth of knowledge gained at the international conference of Girl Scouts to impart to the youth and everyone interested in girls. She will keep all spellbound when she tells about what the Girl Scouts did in the European countries during the war and what they are doing now to help restore normal living.

But a large share of the program will be given by the girls themselves—for they, too, know quite a bit about girls in other lands. My means of "shadow-graph" they will show how all Girl Scouts are alike the world over. They have put much preparation into the program, and so are hopeful of a very large audience.

In addition, there will be the usual peppy songs and the first official public appearance of the all the girls like a well. Miss Mary Alice Clark, who will have a roll call by troops, and conduct a renewal of Girl Scout obligations.

So all Girl Scouts, Brownies, and all their friends—both old and young—are asked to pay a visit to Beatty auditorium on Sunday afternoon.
